Poetry.

Somewhere.

Somewhere, await the treasures we have strewn,
Which idle feet and hands have rudely shattered:
And tenderest love shall gather as its own
The pearls thus scattered.

Somewhere the tears of broken-hearted trust
Of patient sacrifice and self submission
Shall from the rainbow promises of a just
And full fruition.

Somewhere the narrow stepping-stones we tread—
The steep and terrible ascent of duty—
Shall change to velvet terraces o'erspread
With emerald beauty.

Somewhere, the doubtful seed that we have sown,
Shall disprove a cold, uncertain rootage,
And vindicate the hope we now disown
By fairest fruitage.

Somewhere, our human effort of to-day,
The faltering out come of a pure intention,
Eternity shall hold as brave assay
And true ascension.

O universal soul! The finite range
Of earth and time may dwarf our high endeavor
Yet life is victory, through the shelving change
Of the forever.

Selected Story.

The Wife's Secret.

A THRILLING STORY

"Can I bear it?" asked George Chesterfield's wife of her own heart, as she knelt beside her bed, her arms upon it, her face hidden upon them; "can I bear it?—can I bear it?"

Then her own heart answered. "You can; for if he does not love you, you love him."

And she arose and stood beside her baby's cradle, and saw its father's eyes look up at her from that, his tiny minature, and upon her gentle sholders the burden she never thought to bear.

That morning a letter had been brought to her—an annonymous letter, accompanied by a packet. The letter ran thus:

"MADAM:—A friend, who does not desire to see you imposed upon, sends you these to show you what a man may be.—They have been stolen from the person to whom they were written, but the good-intention sanctions the means used to further it.

"A WELL-WISHER."

The wife of two years had read this, and had opened the packet. There she found four love letters, written to some woman who was addressed as Olivia, and dated one year before her own marriage—letters that told the story of a passion warmer than it was pure, for she who had awakened it was evidently a wife—letters such as George Chesterfield had never written to the woman who now read them. Following them came this, dated on the very day before their wedding:

"DEAR OLIVIA—DEAREST OLIVIA:—I shall write no more to you again, for I am about to place myself in a position which makes it my duty to forget you. I am to be married to-morrow. I have done this to tear myself more completely from you. You have often told me that I should do so—You are right. A man in love cannot trust himself.

For my sake—may I say for yours, also, Olivia?—I take this step. Of course I do not love this girl; but she is a pure, good woman, and I respect her.—They call her beautiful, also; but only your face will be quite beautiful in my eyes. It rises before me as I say adieu. It will haunt me always, but here I part from it. Faaewell—farewell, as though I were dying. Perhaps in heaven we may meet again, and there be all in all to each other.

Yours forever.

"GEORGE CHESTERFIELD."

Hellen Chesterfield read this through, knew it to be genuine and cried out in her great agony, "Oh, why did I not die on that happy wedding day? Why did I live for this?"

Then for two long hours she knelt beside her pillow, struggling with herself, strugling until, at last, her heart gave her the answer we have already written down:

"Yes, you can bear it; for though he does not love you, you still love him."

Then the poor wife tore into fragments those passionate love letters, and that final one which seemed her death wound, the whole cruel packet that had brought her so much woe, and burnt them to ashes on her hearth, and vowed that while she lived, her husband should never know that she had read them.

"For he has not deceived me," she said to herself. "He has been true to me, honorable to me. That he has been sorely wounded should make me hate him, and he shall never know, if I can help it, how I suffer. He is always kind, oh, heaven pity me! always kind; that must suffice me."

And so she met him, with her baby in her arms, as camly as she had parted from him.

He never saw the great change in her. He never knew that from that hour life lost its beauty for her—that even the brightness of her love for her baby had faded, because she knew that her father had not loved her. No one knew anything, save that the roundness left her cheek—that her eyes lost half their sweetness—that she never indulged in those moments of reposeful reverie of which she had once been so fond. Work was her refuge, and she dared not pause to think.

People called the Chesterfields a happy couple. Women envied her—for he seemed a model husband. She locked her skeleton carefully up, and gave no one a peep at it.

Years flew by. Two other babys took the first baby's place. George Chesterfield grew rich. She had helped him to become so by frugality and usefulness, and now it was a pleasure to him to give her the means of doing good among the poor.—Helen Chesterfield's carriage was often found waiting at the door of some wretched abode than at those of her fashionable friends. she was happy in doing good.

One day a woman in the worst wretched haunt into which she ever carried her pure presence spoke to her of another lying ill in the next room.

"She's been a lady, ma'am" she said, "but she's come down dreadful. I think you'd do her good."

And Helen Chesterfield followed her into a room, where, upon a bed, lay the wreck of the loveliest woman on whom Helen's gaze had ever rested—a blonde with black eyes, whose golden hair swept over her pillow down upon the floor as she lay—a creature with white hands and snowy throat, but with "lost" stamped upon her features as though it had been written there.

She looked at Helen angrily.

"More tracts?" she asked, in a harsh voice. "Take them away, then. It's too late for them with me."

But Helen was not one of those who satisfy tarrying wretchedness with mere words. What she said or did hardly matters. It was what was most needed. —No pharisaical pride made her shrink from contact with a fallen sister. There was food and wine and decent linen in that poor room before many hours were over; and she did not even ask the woman's name. It mattered not who she was, to Helen. She suffered—this was enough for charity.

So for days and days she ministered to this poor creature, who grew to yearn for her coming; who prayed her to stay longer when she came, but who often looked at her in a strange way, quite unaccountable to Helen; who sometimes began to speak, and paused and said "Another time," as though she postponed some conference—the story of her life perhaps. Only God knew what it might be.

So the autumn wore away. Winter came and went; and in the spring the little life in that poor creatures breast was smouldering out. Helen knew that she must die. It seemed right to tell her so, but the task was a woeful one.

She sat beside her thinking of this, one day, when the poor soul caught her hand.

"I shall go soon, shan't I?" she asked. —"I know it is so. But promise me that when I have told you my story you won't leave me—that you will still be kind to me. Promise."

"I promise," said Helen.

"You are George Chesterfield's wife. I know it. You need not answer. You remember, ten years ago, receiving some letters written to Olivia?"

Remember! The wife's cheek paled—She remembered it always.

"Go on," she said, hoarsely, bitterly; her whole woe upon her as it had never been before. "Go on!"

"I am Olivia" said the woman. "I sent those letters myself. I did it to make you wretched, to revenge myself upon him.—He was young when he met me. I, a married woman—though no older than he—I lured him on; I delighted in his hopeless love—in those letters—in his protestations. I joyed on the receipt of that one written on his wedding day. Pure women cannot understand how wicked women rejoice in meshing hearts they do not care for—in ruining young men's lives for a petty triumph. Lady don't turn from me. I've not done yet."

"Had you not enough gasped the retched wife. "Could you not bear to keep it from me? You ruined my young life. You killed me—yes, you killed me. as far as heart went."

"Ah!" cried the woman, "It was not when he wrote love to me that I betrayed him. Revenge prompted me. Six months after his mariage, I received this. Read it. When that came I sent you the others. I was a fiend; I knew it. But perhaps I can undo my work, even now: Read this, and see."

Helen seized the faded, dingy envelope that the woman drew from her bosom and hurried with it to the light. She tore it open, and looked upon the lines within. This was what she read, dated six months after her mariage.

"OLIVIA—MY FRIEND— I told you I would never write again to you, and I wrote like a fool. I told you that I married a woman I did not love, and that I should love you forever. Being so true a friend as I beleive you are to me, you will rejoice to know that I was quite mistaken. I have forgotten the unhappy passion of my youth as you so often bade me, and man never loved a wife so fondly as I love my darling, Helen. She is the life of my life, the soul of my soul, and I cannot leave you under the false impression I have give you. Love came after marriage, it is true, to me; but its germ was in my heart. You will be glad to know of this; and wish me, as I wish you, ever happiness.

"GEORGE CHESTERFIELD."

She read it through—she read it twice this poor wife, to whom balm had come after so many years—and sank down upon her knees, forgetful of all else, and thanked God for it. When she turned toward the bed, she saw that in that moment the death angel had come, and that the unhappy Olivia had passed into eternity.

When George Chesterfield met his wife that night he hardly knew her. Girlhood seemed to have returned; her smile charmed him as of yore; her eyes were bright, her lips red again.

"How happy you look," he said.

And she answered, "I am very happy."

Nothing more then, but one day she told him all.

Every Republican victory won in this campaign has been greeted by the organs and leaders of the disreputable coalition with cries of "Fraud!" "Corruption!" "Money did it!" &c., &c. Just as if the Tamany Party was the only one which never used money in elections, and was always concerned lest it should not make an immaculatue record. Every body has known that the coalition has used a great deal of money in this campaign, and everybody has wondered where it could possibly come from. We are at last able to give some highly-important and interesting, not to say amuseing, information on the subject. Daylight has at last been let into the dark secrets of the Liberal exechequer, and we are inclined to the belief that the facts herewith presented will be read with infinite zest and amusement.

Sunday was a gloomy, rainy, quiet Sunday. Owing to the cessation of travel and the unpleasent weather, our force of vigilent representatives had less than usual to do. But, finding a screw loose in the Liberal management they applied themselves industriously, and the result was a renewed assurance that honest industry always prospers. And by way of prelude, it may be stated that, literaly, the "bottom is out" at the Liberal Headquarters; the contest is all abandoned; the exchequer is not only exhausted but the committees are deeply in debt; confidence between the leaders has long been gone, and personal fends have its place. Fenton and Cochrane are by the ears with Allen and Murray —and Allen, and Murrry, and detective Wood are in a big quarrel with each other, the end of which, as will be seen, is likely to reveal a great deal of "richness" yet secreted in the archives of the Liberal Headquarters. But, to the list of "financial losses" sustained by those who have loved Greeley "not wisely, but too well."

THE FIRST CONTRIBUTION.

The first man to testify his appreciation of Mr. Greeley in a substantial manner was Gen. Alfred Pleasonton. Almost upon the heels of the Cincinnatti Convention, and at the very inception of the "tidal wave," he planked down his check for $2,500, and would have been glad to have made it more, but that he came out of office a poor man. So that, in addition to having sacrificed his verasity at the request of Shurz, he stands recorded as having sacrificed his money at the request of Ethan Allen and Jim Scovel.

HOW MR. A. T. STEWART BACKED AND FILED.

Everybody will remember with what a flourish it was announced early in the campaign by the Liberal organs themselves that the great millionare merchant, in thorough disgust of Grant and the Administration, had demonstrated his desire for a change to the amount of $30,000; and how it was denied and questioned and coufused until nobody could tell anything about it. But there hangs a tale by the transaction well worth recording. The astute Mr. Fenton managed the matter and no one excells him in the secret with which he executes such plans. This is the way in which the "accident" happened, and how it was reminded. Mr. Stewart was approached at an early day for a contribution to the Greeley cause. With his accustomed sagacity, he replied that owing to his large business, and the contact he necessarily had with the Government officials, it would not do for him to subscribe as desired. But it was finally arranged that his copartners in the several Western States should contribute, on their own account $30,000 in the aggregate, and the settlement of the account would be a business matter between him and them. The prime condition of the whole arrangement was that the name of Mr. A. T. Stewart should not be known in the matter at all. But this news created such joy at the Greeley head-quaters that Mr. Ethan Allen forthwith killed the golden goose by rushing the fact in the newspapers. Thereupon Mr. Stewart, in high dudge on, refused to carry out the arrangement. But the softly-persuasive powers of the suave Mr. Fenton were again brought into requestion, and shortly before the North Carolina election, viz., about the 23d of July last, at the St. Nicholas Hotel, he was induced to contribute $10,000 which was drawn in $500 bills and sent to that State. But, it should be added, that Mr. Stewart has endeavored very recently to attone for his misplaced confidence by subscribing at least one-fifth as much to the Republican expenses, so that he can be said to have treated both sides alike, except as to amounts.

MONEY FOR NORTH CAROLINA

About this time, what with Stewart's ten thousand and some contributions, the Liberal Committee felt very "flush," and determined to make a "spurt" and carry North Carolina. Col. Tisdale, Mr Fenton's private secretary and confidential manager, was thereupon started for that State with eighteen thousand dollars upon one train, and Wood and Blumenburg were sent off on another. What they did, or sought to do, is well known. This money was paid over by Tisdale to these worthies, and thereby hangs another tale, which will keep will enough until after election. Mr. A. T. Stewart will be glad to learn that he has furnished capital to start some of these "Liberal" gentlemen in an honorable business.

GOV. SPRAGUE AND HIS BROTHER.

The "Liberal" managers had but few rich placers, but they worked them well. They sought to take advantage, at an early day, of the supposed "sympathies" of Gov. Sprague, and the well-known Democratic tendencies of his brother Amasa. But Gov. Sprague, like some others, did not wish to appear on paper. He was perfectly willing to subscribe, but he didn't want the fact known at Washington. So he put down $20,000 in the names of two friends, viz., Mr Jno. F. Hamlin, who got the check from the Governor, and devoted $10,000 of the sum to the New England States—and Mr. M. E. Pierce, who took the remaining $10,000 for Pennsylvania. In the meantime, Gov. Sprague has assured his Republican friends that he has made no subscription. In addition to this his brother, Mr. Amasa Sprague, forwarded the sum of $35,000 in one check with instructions to apply it as follows: To Maine. $5,000; to Connecticut, $5,000; to Allen; for the Liberal National Committee, $10,000: to Major Banks, for the Democratic National Committee $15,000; adding, in the desperation of a depleted pocket, "not a cent more."

MONEY FOR PENNSYLVANIA.

The Pennsylvania campaign was a sore experience for the Liberals in more respects than one. They alleged great poverty, though they brought a large amount of money to bear nevertheless. We have not space to-day to tell all the details of their expenditure, but there is one branch of it that is rather too rich to omit. That brilliant manager, Mr. Ethan Allen thought it necessary to have the same sagacious and unscrupulous aid which he had in North Carolina. So he arranged with Bob Murray that he (Murray) should go to Philadelphia and take charge of the manipulations. He then telegraphed to Wood and Blumenburg to come here, and they were detailed to assist Murray. Allen promised them $10,000 of Gov. Sprague's money, and said to Wood, "If you want a thousand or so more, draw on me." They all repaired to Philadelphia in the first days of October and made their head-quarters at the Elmore House, in Arch-street. On the 6th of October, three days before election, Gov. Sprague's friend, Mr. Pierce, arrived in Philadelphia and paid Murray $5,000. This was $5,000 less than promised, and Murray apprised Allen of that fact. Allen replied that Murray must get $5,000 more from Pierce, as that was the sum agreed upon. Wood went ahead in his operations, and desiring $1,000 more, Murray advanced it on the strength of Allen's authorization to draw. In the meantime the whole party wore closely watched, through the management of William B. Mann and Gen. Henry H. Bingham, so that all their operations were completely foiled; and the result of this Pennsylvania business was disastrous all round, for, in addition to defeat, it has bred which promises to get into the Courts. Allen refuses to pay the $1,000 which Murray had advanced to Wood in Philadelpha, and Murray "purposes" to "put him through," as will be seen by the following letter to Detective Wood, which is given with all the embellishments of ex-Marshal Murray's perfect orthography and etymology:

A ROW BETWEEN EX-MARSHAL MURRAY AND ETHAN ALLEN,

GREELEY AND BROWN
HEAD QRS. NAT. DEM. COM'TEE
SPINGLER HOUSE, UNION SQUARE,
NEW YORK, Oct. 23, 1872.

Wm. P. Wood, Esq.:

DR. SIR: I have just had an interview with Allen and he positively refuses to pay that one thousand dollars, he denies ever having received any telegram from you authorizing him to pay me that money. When you come to New York I want you to call on him and demand the money and if he refuses to pay commence a suit against him immediately for the amount. I will pay all expenses. It is as I have always told you: he is a Beate of the first water. I wish you would come here with as little delay as possible, for I don't think it advisable to loose any Time with this fellow. We have a good case against him, and he cannot sheirk it any way in the world. If we put it to him, which I purpose doing as soon as he refuses to pay you the amount of which he authorized you to draw for.

Yours, &c.,

(Signed,) ROBERT MURRAY.

SPRAGUE'S MISSING FIVE THOUSAND.

In the meantime, there is a lively scramble for that missing $5,000 which Mr. Pierce failed to pay over. Gov. Sprague has been absent in Texas, but he passed through this City Friday on his return to Providence, and Ethan Allen at once dispatched a letter to him wanting to know about it, and requesting him to send the $5,000 to him at once. Allen expects an answer to-day. Murray also has an eye on this $5,000, claiming that he is entitled to it on account of the Philadelphia expenses.

MONEY FROM THE TRIBUNE.

About the 20th or 22d of September, last Mr. Samuel Sinclair gladdened the heart of Mr. Ethan Allen by informing him that he had collected twelve thousand dollars, of which sum, he confidentially said Mr. Greeley himself had contributed six thousand dollars. But, owing to circumstances which will be subsequently explained, Mr. Sinclair did not pay the money to Mr. Allen, but handed it to Mr. Augustus Schell, who, not wanting a quarrel on his hands, quietly turned it over to Allen. Thus it will be seen that Mr. Greeley "went" $6,000 on his own "mettle." Whether he "sold another nigger," as he was wont to call his shares of Tribune stock, we cannot positively say, but we learn that about the same time Mr. Whitelaw Reid bought one, and that may be the explanation of Mr. Greeley's $6,000 subscription.

MR. SCHELL'S CONTRIBUTIONS.

The highly-respectable Chairman of the Democratic National Committee has been obliged, in this campaign, to perform the arduous duty of ke

THE GRAND RESULT.

Well, it is all over, and our triumph is complete, resplendent, unparallelled. The defeat of the opposition is overwhelming. It is a second Appomattox. It is the recorded verdict of the American people, not only sustaining the grand Party of Progress and Patriotism, but vindicating a traduced and slandered public servant as never a man was vindicated before. No such withering and popular rebuke was ever received by any political party in this or any other country than that which has overtaken the corrupt Greeley-ite—Democratic—everything—to beat Grant crusade.

Already the October and November elections are things of the past, but they have settled great and important issues. They proved the Waterloo of "Liberalism" and rang out the death knell of Democracy. They are the expression once more by the people, more emphatic than ever, of their invincible determination to maintain the integrity of the nation in all its fullness and strength, and means the consolidation, the harmony and the organic supremacy of the Union. They prove incontestably, and beyond the hope of every possible reversal, that the will of the people is fixed; that the policy that triumphed in the war is the policy of the popular heart; that no party calling it in question can expect success, and to that fact the movements of the future must conform as to a law of ate.

Such being the facts, let the South be wise. Instead of feeding upon old illusions which have kept alive unreasoning irritabilities, let it put them aside forever, and join heartily in the endeavor to raise the Great Republic to the height of its destinies. Let her understand that henceforth her duty is, not to chew the cud of ancient grudges, but to enter upon the active field of effort, redeeming materially, politically, and socially, whatever has been lost in the past, and achieving far more than was ever dreamed of for the future.

HINTS TO FARMERS' MECHANICS AND LARORING MEN NO. 2.

It is an indisputable fact that all countries that export food and buy their manufactured articles grow poor, while, on the other hand, those which import food and pay for it in manufactures generally grow rich. It is a fallacy that "cheap food make good times." When a mechanic or laboring man is well employed at good wages he can better afford to pay Ten dollars for a barrel of Flour than he can afford to pay Three dollars for it if he be out of employment. So with the Farmer. When the price of his produce is low he cannot afford to pay good wages to those who labor for him.

A large portion of the people of every country must necessarily be engaged in the production of food, and it is this part of a community that is the substratum upon which the social fabric is reared. When, therefore, the condition of those employed in the department of industry is improved, the whole superstructure is elevated. If those engaged in tilling the soil receive poor remuneration for their labor, although they may have an abundance of food for themselves, they cannot be good customers to those engaged in other departments of industry, and consequently when the Farming interest languishes every department of business suffers.

Another fact. The prosperity of a nation, when no forced measures interfere with the natural operations of trade and commerce, is indicated, to a considerable extent, by the proportion of the people engaged in pursuits which are not Agricultural. In a normal condition of a country, mechanical, manufacturing and commercial employments pay so as to prevent the farmers vocation from being glutted or overstocked. As this prosperity increases, every department of industry find those to embark in them and each prove of mutual benefit and interest to the other.

It is a great mistake to believe that the raising of the raw material for a foreign market is the most profitable. Those countries confining themselves to Agriculture are not generally prosperous. This may be plainly seen by contrasting different portions of our own country. Take our Southern States for example. They have always been principally devoted to Agriculture. Their population was spread over the country and the laborers were poor, receiving but a small remuneration for their work. Then look at the Middle States. They have, to a much greater extent, been engaged in commerce and manufactures. There wages were better, the condition of the working men superior, and the increase of wealth much greater. The Southern States kept on wearing out their land while the Middle and Eastern States were improving the quality of theirs. The wealth of the little State of Massachusets is greater to-day than that of half a dozen states South of the Potomac.

To sum the facts up, they amount to this. The producer and the consumer should not be too far distant. Give the Farmer a good home market and he can afford to pay good wages. He cannot have a good home market unless there is prosperous Mechanics and Manufacturing establishments around him.

SIMON CAMERON OF PENNSYLVANIA.

We are proud of our native State old Pennsylvania. She has covered herself with glory. And we are especially proud of her for thoroughly and completely vindicating her leading Statesman—a man always true to her interest, we mean General SIMON CAMERON. Next to President GRANT he has been the best abused man in the United States. In Pennsylvania he has been made the special target at which the opposition have fired for years, but in the late tremendous contest waged there he was not only obliged to meet the inveterate and combined assaults of those who had hitherto opposed him and the great party of which he was the recognized leader, but he had to contend against the fierce and unscrupulous attacks of such men as CURTIN and FORNEY and MCCLURE—men who had sworn to break him down. They made the contest in October a personal one—combining with the Democrats to crush SIMON CAMERON.

Behold the result! He met them all fought them, and overwhelmingly defeated them. The people of Pennsylvania know him and have confidence in him. They accepted the issue, made his cause their own, and gave the verdict at the ballot box.

Ever since we entered public life we have known SIMON CAMERON, and we have known him well. He has been our friend. He is one of the most remarkable men of our times. Born poor, he has struggled up to exert a mighty power in the nation. Both in the Cabinet and in the National Legislature he has evinced superior talent and remarkable influence. And then he can always be relied on. His fidelity to the Republican party is unwavering. While others have cast about and conspired its ruin, he has stood firm. Though now seventy three years old he is just as intrepid, active and full of energy as ever, good we hope and believe for at least a dozen more years of public service.

Gen. GEO. G. MEADE died at Philadelphia on the 6th inst., aged 56 years. He was one of the prominent Union Generals in the late war. He was made commander of the Army of the Potomac, June 28, 1863, and commanded at the great and decisive battle at Gettysburg, on July, 1 and 3, 1863. In the Richmond campaign he fought several successful battles, and in August 1864, was made major general in the regular army, and assigned to the command of the military department of the Atlantic.

The recent election has demonstrated to the satisfaction of all what we have time and again repeated, and that is so-called great leaders are only powerful while they remain on the track, and great newspapers are only influential while they maintain a character for consistency and inspire public confidence in their honesty. No lesson has been more seriously impressed than this; and no one of all the lessons of this election will have a more lasting influence.

LYMAN TREMBULL, who saved ANDREW JOHNSON from being expelled from the Presidency, when the evidence warranted the same, and deserted the Republican Senators, was overwhelmingly defeated in Illinois for reelection. He is about the last of the traitors in the United States Senate, and he too has received his reward.

HORACE GREELEY publishes a Card in which he gives notice of his return to the editorial management of the Tribune. He says he will never again be a candidate for any office. No wonder. He is more successful as an editor than as a candidate.

Whoever says that HORACE GREELEY didn't tell the truth when he said that "GRANT has never been defeated and never will be," is a malicious l——, a v——, and a s—— of the deepest color.

The day before the election the Tribune said, "that we shall have to-morrow an opportunity to show exactly what we can do." They have shown—"exactly"—and t is not much.

A large portion of the City of Boston is in ashes. On Sunday night at 7 o'clock the alarm of fire was sounded and before its ravages could be checked the heart of the City was burned down—many miles of the business portion entirely destroyed. The loss is estimated at not less than $200,000,000. It is another Chicago disaster.

Rev. JAMES REID, newly elected Superintendent of Public Instruction died at Greensboro on the 8th, inst. He was one of the oldest members of the North Carolna Methodist Conference, his whole life having been spent in the ministry.

New York not only went strong for GRANT, but she elected Gen. DIX Governor and HAVEMEYER Mayor of the City by handsome majorities. The Legislature is largely Republican.

"How many pilgrims lie."—Ex.

We give it up. Though our experience has taught us that there are a good many.

Capt. T. J. Jarvis was made a Greeley Elector. He moved to Pitt County and made Greeley speeches. Result—a gain of over 600 for GRANT!

GRANT, the tanner, "tanned" GREELEY, and WILSON, the shoemaker, "waxed" BROWN. Let us have peace!

There will be more than a two thirds majority of Republicans in the next Congress.

The Legislature of the State meets on Monday next, the 18th.

THE MAIDOF SKER By R. D. Blackmore. New-York: HARPER & BROTHERS.

In originality and interest this last novel of Mr. Blackmore's will compare favorably with any work of fiction that has been published this year. Perhaps more than this might be said, for the creation of a well defined character is not a matter of annual recurrence; and in the character of Davy Llewellyn, Mr. Blackmore has conceived, formed, and presented a study which we cannot aout will prove exceedingly attractive to the American reading public. It is upon this delineation that the worth of the book mainly rests; in other cases considerable originality has been shown, but in them the range of the probable has been sometimes overstepped, while in tracing the character of the shrewd, humorous, half-honest, half-cunning Welsh fishermen, there is an evident fidelity to surroundings, which is only prevented from being wonderful by the descriptive power necessarily employed by him as first person in the narrative. The plot of the novel is very clever, and considering the time and place is not at all sensational.

CORRESPONDENCE

Hon. C. L. Cobb in the West.

To the Editor of the North Carolinian:

ASHEVILLE, N. C., Nov. 1st, 1872.

Tuesday last was the day appointed by the Liberal Republicans (or Conservatives) of this township for the last exhortation to their weak brethren to give their suffrage to Greeley. Their orators were Gen. T. L. Clingman and Mr. Walter Cushman, a gentleman from Massachusetts, who removed here two or three years ago. At the request of several Republicans, your young and talented townsman Hon. C. L. Cobb was granted the privilege of replying to these gentlemen.

It was understood that Gen. Vance, Mr. Cobb's colleague in the next Congress, was to be the principal speaker, and, our friends were anxious to have on the stump a comparative exhibition of their oratorical talent, and to demonstrate that the argumentative powers of Mr. Cobb were only equaled by his remarkable executive ability. But Gen. Vance, like the rest of the Vance family, "was in the hands of his friends," who dreaded any disparagement of their representative ere he handed in his credentials, and prefer that the dome of the capitol shall extinguish his provincial talent, so the political Captain Dahlgetty, of Western North Carolina was substituted in his stead.

Mr. Cushman, with his manuscript before him, delivered himself of a speech which "smelled of the lamp" and the chief merit of which consisted in its ornate sentences. In reply Mr. Cobb soon proved that the gentleman's apostacy from the great National Republican Party was without tenable grounds, and that reconcilliatian and reform under Greeley was a delusion which he and other bolting Repnblicans would sooner or later, be forced to acknowledge. His exposure of the hollow pretensions of Greeley and his army of office-seekers was complete, clear and convincing, and met with the hearty applause of the greater portion of the audience.

Gen. Clingman then took the stand, and for an hour taxed the patience of his hearers by a re-hash of the falsehoods which have appeared in the Tribune and other "Liberal" organs in the past few months, Especially did he dwell with emphasis on the stale fabrication that defaulting Revenue offiicials not only escaped punishment, but were retained in office by the Administration after their curimes were made manifest. He produced no testimony to corobarate these serious charges, but placed them on their prima facie basis—the unwarranted and irresponsible declarations of a venal press.

In Mr. Cobb's reply to the General, he challenged him to point to even one issolated case of the kind; but the General was without data, and instead of attempting to sustain the slander, he went on in a rambling and discontented tirade against the President whom he censured severely for passing the summer with his family at Long Branch.

At the close of the meeting, the Liberals exhibited every sign of dissatisfaction at the manner in which their Goliah had been floored by the youthful David of Republicanism. Vance, the elect, was terribly disgusted: he sat twisting the back of his left hand in the palm of his right, and vice versa—washing them with imaginary soap in imperceptible water.

Vance is an indifferent speaker, and while it may be uncharitable to anticipate, we fear his political, like his military record will never occupy a very conspicuous place in history notwithstading his attack on the force under Kirk at Warm Springs, and his precipitate retreat on Asville the same day, is regarded by "knowing ones" as a marvel in strtegetic warfare. The only reputation he ever gained in these knobs was that of a temperence lecturer, though he placed himself, during his canvass last summer, in rather a paradoxical position by pledging himself, if elected, to v for removing the tax on the distillation of ardent spirits. His forte is not politics, and his election is due entirely to the numerical strength of his party in this District. It is said he made a good many converts to sobriety, and we think he should have "continued doing Sood." Like the fellow who was good on fits only, we think Vance is ont of his sphere when he attempts the treatment of anything but the evils arising from intemperence, and it will not do for him to be too far from the mountains when he handles that subject.

Mr. Cobb and his amiable and accomplished wife left here this morning on their return home. His brief stay was a treat to the Republicans of this section, who realy enjov the company of their representative men om the East. On Monday last he addr ssed the people of Hendersonville, who were much pleased with his captivating eloquence, and courteous bearing. There is butone opicion here among our party with regard to Clinton L. Cobb, and that is, that you good-people were extremely fortunate in the selection of a representative, and displayed sound judgment in re-electing him.

BUILDINGS.

Having attempted a description of the grounds, I now invite the reader to a consideration of the buildings of this great school.

On the western side of the Park, towering like some monster mountain above the fellows of its range, stands the

NEW MIDSHIPMEN'S QUARTERS.

This structure is nearly three hundred feet in total length, composed of a centre building about sixty feet square, and two wings, each one hundred and seventeen feet long by about forty-six feet in depth. It is four stories high, with a basement and attic. In the is the kitchen, store-room, pantry, steam-laundry, boiler room (which supplies steam for heating the building) coal-cellar, and bath-rooms (hot, cold and shower). On the is the dining room, one hundred and two feet long; the officers of the commandant of midshipmen and officer in charge; a reception room, and seven recitation rooms. The second, third and fourth floors have the following arrangement:—

A corridor twelve feet wide extending the whole length of the floor, with a staircase at each end and in the centre; four reception rooms in the main building, and dormitories in each wing. The last are designed to accommodate two hundred midshipmen. Two midshipmen are assigned to one room. Two single beds, two wardrobes, two chairs, one wash stand, one centre table, a steam coil for heating the room, and a chandelier constitute the furniture of each room, and not a jot or tittle can be added thereto. This building is used by the members of the Second, Third, and Fourth class only. I shall refer to the quarters of the First class, and of the cadet engineers in my next article.

I have avoided a description of the exterior of the New Quarters merely because I felt my inability to do justice to the grace and beauty which characterizes it. And yet, a word or two must be said of its general features. It is of brick painted in imitation of free stone, with red sand-stone cappings. It is surmounted by a graceful dome and clock tower, the latter being supplied with a clock having four dials that are illuminated by night. A promenade gallery extends around the base of the dome, affording an excellent outlook upon the country for many miles around. The facade is decorated with an exquisite verandah having two floors on the wings and three on the main building. To the south, and on the same side of the Park is the Academy which is designed to accomodate midshipmen who may be temporarily sick. Such as are dangeorusly ill are conveyed to the Naval Hospital referred to in my first article. There is an air of such perfect comfort about this place that it offers tempting inducements to play sick and go to bed here. Gentler nurses, downier beds, daintier dishes, cleverer surgeons are rarely met with.

It is a fact worthy of passing notice, that not one single death has ever occured amoug the midshipmen at this place. Whether this be due to the excellent hygienic rules of the school, or to the general good health of the place, or to the adage that "a midshipman can't be made way with," must be determined by wiser heads than mine.

THE RESIDENCES

of the officers, extending the entire length of the southern side of the ground, with a row diverging at right angles near the centre and running two thirds of the distance across, are almost uniform in size, shape and external finish, except those of the Suprintendent and commandent of midshipmen. They are imposing structures, three stories high, with basements, and are all painted a pale lilac with brown facings. They are about thirty-five in number, and are all handsomely furnished from cellar to garret. Each is supplied with gas, water, hot, cold, and shower baths, and heated with steam.

Strangers looking in upon the surroundings of the officers, are unanimous in declairing that they are happy in their lot. Yet our naval officers deserve all this, and more. In their country's peril they defied death at the cannon's mouth and on the fretted sea; now they are resting from their labors. But, gentle reader, permit me to make a sub rosa communication. The surroundings of these officers are the fairest I ever looked upon, yet don't you offer to exchange with them. There are two sides to every picture, and both are not alike pretty. I'll show you the other side. Each one of these houses has its skeleton—a "grim, ungainly, gaunt, and ominous" skeleton, that rattles its bones in their faces every day. That skeleton is the Sea. They must leave at the expiration of three years—then comes "a life on the ocean wave." For three years they must go out where the hurricane makes war with the wave; for three years they must be far away from the tenderly loved.

On a terraced ground soft as velvet, stands the whose bright walls are half hidden by climbing ivy. It was erected in 1868 at a cost of forty thousand dollars. The chief points of interest here are the tablets in the walls of the audience room. I can give space for the inscriptions on but two of them only.

Lieutenant-Commander ALEXANDER SLIDELL MACKENZIE killed in battle with savages, Formosa, June 13, 1867, aged 26 years. Erected by the officers and men of the United States Asiatic Squadron.

In memory of Lieutenant JOHN G. TALBOT, U. S. Navy, PETER FRANCIS, Quatermaster, JOHN ANDREWS, Coxswain, JAMES MUIR Captain of the Hold, all of the U. S. S. Saginaw, who were drowned Dec. 19th, 1870, while attempting to land on the Island of Kauai, in the North Pacific Ocean, after a boat voyage of fifteen hundred miles, voluntarily undertaken in search of aid for their wrecked shipmates on Ocean Island. To commemorate their adventurous voyage, in admiration of their heroism, and to keep alive the remembrance of their noble and generous devotion, this tablet is erected by their shipmates and by officers of the U. S. Navy.

"Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends,"

East of the chapel, and nearly adjacent to it, is the LIBRARY.

This building, formerly the govenor's mansion, was purchased from the state of Maryland for twenty-five thousand dollars, and has been elegantly fitted up for its present purpose. On the upper floor are the officers of the Superintendent and Secretary of the Academy, and of the Academic Board. The Library, on the lower floor, is divided into five rooms furnished in velvet and satin brocade and ornamented with copies in plaster of celebrated pieces of statuary and busts of statesmen, generals, naval officers, poets and painters; also a number of paintings representing famous naval engagements, and portraits of a long line of naval heroes begining with John Paul Jones and ending with the great Farragut.

The assortment of books, numbering about fifteen thousand volumes, is excellent, embracing the sciences, history, biography, and standard novels, besides the choicest professional and other periodicals published in this country and Europe.

An officer is detailed for the exclusive duty of selecting and buying additional books from the current literature of the day, a special appropriation of Congress supplying the necessary funds. All officers, and midshipmen of the First and Second Class, have free access to the rooms; a librarian with two assistants being constantly on duty from nine A. M. until five P. M., issuing and receiving books.

It was my purpose to speak a little in detail of the rich collection of birds, coins (ancient and modern), shells, minerals, etc., to be found in one of the upper rooms of the library; but, having already transgressed my allotted space, I must content myself with this passing notice, merely adding that one must see in order to appreciate the beauties that cluster about the Naval School.

The Albemarle Agricultural Fair Postponed—Address of the Executive Committee.

Two months ago, as publicly announced, the Executive Committee of the Albemarle Agricultural Society decided to hold a Fair at this place on the 20th of the present month. Then everything seemed auspicious. We had succeeded in securing eligible and commodious Grounds; we made arrangements to have them neatly fenced—and we had the assurance that the new Hotel would be ready by that date to receive and accommodate the visitors from abroad attending the Exhibition. But unforeseen events have occured making a postponement almost a necessity. The sudden and unexpected death of one of the Proprietors of the Hotel, A. P. Cone Esq.,—whose loss is felt and universally deplored by our entire community—has delayed its completion at least a month, making it quite too late for us, and the serious accident to our efficient President, Rev. W. W. Kennedy, confining him for weeks to his room, has deprived us of his wise counsel and practical co-operation.

These fortuitous reverses, occuring at the formative stage of an enterprize of so much importance, have caused us to feel it would be hazardous to attempt holding a Fair this Fall; that it would be wiser, under the peculiar circumstances, to postpone it over 'til next Summer;—in the mean while to go on vigorously with the work of preparing the Grounds, grading the Track, erecting the necessary Buildings and getting everything in a condition to make the undertaking a complete success.

As this enterprize is one which commends itself to all classes, its object being to develope the agricultural, mechanical and other resources, and to promote and advance all the industries of this whole Albermarle country, and feeling that the accomplishment of its aims will redound to the common weal, we do not hesitate to earnestly solicit the earnest cooperatioin of all our people in making the Fair next year a much better one than it would have been possible, at this late date, to have much this. Let us, one and all, unite our energies in advancing this work and it will not only give a new impulse to developement and progress but will aid us in building up our waste places and inspire a new life and a fresh vigor among our people.

From over the Sound.

Plymouth N. C., Nov. 8th, 1872.

To the Editor of the North Carolinian:

That "ball" you rolled so successfully in Agust for the gallant Cobb, from Currituck to Pitt has been so far as heard from returned with an increased majority for the gallant Grant. You told me that you would "keep it in motion" and the result has verified your prediction. Washington county gives an increased majority for Grant, 541; Tyrrell gives Grant 100 majority; Bertie also gives a large majority for Grant.

There is too much patriotism among the people to allow the country to be sacrificed at this juncture. May the CAROLINIAN, its principles and the Republican party, live and flourish until peace, unity and prosperity is restored to every section of our country, which benign influence will bethe result of the judicious administration of our present chief magistrate, and the teachings of the NORTH CAROLINIAN.

"Close the polls, his work is done!
What to him is friend or foeman,

Lay him low, let him blow
Of his turnips, white as snow!
What cares he? He does not know
How the rutabagas grow."

The Majority in this State will run up to 15,000. The Liberal-Conservative-Crow-eating Democracy are consternated, disgusted and routed.

The first snow of the season fell on Sunday night in Augusta, Me. The fall continued for nearly an hour. The thermometer marked four degress above freezing point.

Gottfried Gebhardt, a young lad in St. Louis, Mo., was bitten in the hand seven weeks ago by a dog, and died of hydrophobia on Sunday night, after suffering intenseiy for three days. This is the second death within a week in St. Louis from hydrophobia.

A suburban correspondent says that the real estate reporters of some of the dailies are so sharp after items now that he hesitates about having his trowers repaired, for fear that it will be reported that he has beught "a new country seat."

The saddest instance of misplaced confidence on record is that of an Indiana man who rescued another from a watery grave only to find that instead of his long lost brother, it was a person to whom he owed three dollars and a half for turnips.

The shortest editorial ever written by Alexander H. Stephens appears in a recent number of the Atlanta Sun. It is one hundred and sixty lines in length, and was inspired by the reception of 'a box of delicious Scuppernong grapes.' It was a small box, which accounts for the brevity of the puff.

At Petaluma, Italy, a committee of five ladies was appointed to determine who was the handsomest man in the audience and award the prize. After a careful tour of inspection through the aisles a lovely editor was singled out by a majority of the committee. [Give us his name.]

The fourth annual report of the Postmaster General will show that the expenses of the Department were increased during the past year, as compared with the preceding year, by about $2.000.000, mainly for increased transportation and other postal facilities, foreign and domestic, and that the increased receipts have nearly kept pace with the expenses, the increase being a little over $2.000.000.

The following episode occurred at the seaside recently: Two ladies were chatting gaily, when the conversation turned upon the subject of dress. Lady No. 1, in reply to a facetious remark of No. 2, said: "I'm in no mood for trifling to-day, and I'm backed up in my good intentions by the presence of Zion's Herald in my panier." No 2 remarked, "There's no use in your feeling so particularly good about that. I have the Christian at Work in mine!"

ADRUG STORE WORTH SEEING

To the Editor of the North Carolinian

During a recent visit to your little City I was among other things attracted by the new Drug Store of Dr. J. N. BUTT, No. 75 Road Street, and I cannot resist the impulse to ask your readers to call and see it, as it is not surpassed by any you will meet in the South, not in Baltimore will you find one more elegantly fitted up except its deficiency in gas lights which the Doctor hopes to supply soon. It is a two story brick building, 65 by 27 feet, with dwelling above. The lower story is divided into Dispensing Room, Office, Ware Room and Laboratory. The Store Room is very light. The front being entirely of plate glass, nine pieces 90 inches long, with two doors and one window, glass 56 x 90. The doors being double, shut one upon the other, and when open, as in summer, are folded back into a recess to the wall, making a straight line with the door and an elegant finish. The doors and flanges to the same being of plate glass, 90 inches long, does not impede the light open or shut. The floor is almost even with the pavement and is covered with a carpet of cocoa matting. There are two counters on either side, 12 feet long, beautifully white splendidly finished, and of good design with Italian marble tops. Their ends 8 feet from the doors, pass at right angle to the wall. On the right hand one is a Tennessee Marble Fountain, and on the other an Aquarium of Gold and other Fish. On either side between the door and counter, is a fine silver mounted walnut Show Case, 5 feet high, fastened to the wall a beautiful and attractive ornament to display Fancy Articles, and in the rear a Poison Case of the same kind. Three find silver mounted and one plate glass Prescription Case, with scroll and clock on top, and one fine balance serve adorn the counters. There are over 120 drawers which make a fine display, they are of sweet gum varnished, which is the prettiest wood that could be used. The shelves are supported on iron brackets, at the terminus of which, 3 feet from the ceiling, is a snow white cornice, interlined with wood strips of gilt moulding. The wall and entire store is pure white except the drawers and when lighted presents a very imposing display.

Last but not least, is the "little jewel" of an office, which is so much needed by every business man. The Doctor is doing, as he tells us, an extensive and lucrative office practice. It is fitted up in fine style, with every modern necessity and examinations are made with as much privacy as in your own home. The Laboratory is not yet finsshed, but when done will be a very responsible part of the establishment. The Doctor keeps a large stock of goods pertaining to the Drug Trade.

☞TO NORTHERN VISITORS.☜

Elizabeth City is 50 miles South East of Norfolk, Va. Parties coming here from the North should take passage on the Bay line Steamers which leave Baltimore at 4 P. M. every evening, and arrive at Portsmouth the next morning in time to connect with the Elizabeth City Steamers, daily.

THIS WEEK'S ADVERTISEMENTS.

We call attention to the following new advertisements in this issue.

$1,000 Reward.
C. B. Brothers Fall and Winter Goods.
Court Notices.

Local and Personal.

☞The Flower Gardens continue to look beautiful.

☞The money market continues remarkably tight.

☞Senator GRANDY left for Raleigh this morning.

☞Cotton remains at 5cts. New corn 50cts. Sweet Potatoes 40cts.

☞The Greeley and Brown Club of this City has adjourned sine die!!

☞Another interesting article on the Naval Academy appears this week.

☞Blue Fish are now among the luxuries. They are as richly flavored as ever.

☞Hon. JOHN POOL paid our City a flying visit last week. He is now at Raleigh.

☞A worse than the "epizootic" has attacked the Democratic roosters. They can't crow!

☞We publish a seasonable and sensible article on the Horse Epidemic on our fourth page this week.

☞Our colored friend GEORGE WHITE has left a Sweet Potato at our office, the largest we have seen this season.

☞No wonder King RICHARD would have given his "Kingdom for a horse." It evidently had the "epizootic."

☞The daily line of Steamers between here and Norfolk has been resumed, excepting Saturdays to Norfolk and Mondays here.

☞They report good times at MATHEW'S Skating Rink in Wood's Hall on every Friday evening. It is now the place of attraction.

☞The Greeley and Brown Club at this place don't know whether it was a "tidal wave" or an earth quake that struck them this time!

☞All of our mechanics are busy and every laboring man, willing to work, can find study employment. What a contrast with three years ago!

☞We are called upon to announce the death of WM. MURDEN, one of our Steamboat Captains, which occurred at his residence at this place on Sunday last.

☞If any person doubts whether advertisements are read or not, let him put something he doesn't wish seen in an obscure part of the NORTH CAROLINIAN.

☞It is quite a rare thing to see a sick man on our streets, but we did see one the other day suffering from the epizoo-sick, caused by an over dose of "rapid lighting."

☞It is said the English papers call the steam whistle the "American devil.' We don't agree with them. "If we know ourself" he is the youth that comes up to our sanctum and asks for "copy."

☞One of our great needs is a Cotton Factory. By a Stock Company one can be built and put in operation. It would pay. There is enough Cotton raised in these counties to keep one busy all the time.

☞Among the Northern arrivals since our last are E. D. BENEDICT of Austinville, Pa., GEO. C. BRODERICK of Havana, N. Y., GEORGE GREEN, of Wellsboro, Pa. and H. C. HARTMAN, of Bloomsburg, Pa.

☞The Fair has been postponed. An Address from the Executive Committee, stating the reasons, appears in another column. In the meanwhile the work on the Fair Grounds will go on, to complete which the balance of the stock will be needed.

☞A Washington editor is rather hard on the "up start" horse doctors just now. Hear him!

It is a good thing jackasses don't get it, for if they did, what would become of the knowing ones who bother newspaper offices, just to tell editors and reporters what they know of the malady?

☞Citizens of Elizabeth City should trade at home, and not go abroad to make purchases. Common interests dictate such a line of conduct. If it is possible to secure first class goods at reasonable prices at home, we fail to appreciate the economy of sending abroad for necessary purchases.

☞Now that cold weather is near and everybody is putting up stoves, they should be careful to discern any defections that might be in flues. By so doing they may save themselves the trouble of going out some night and watching the flames deprive them of a home. Remember the old adage: "A stitch in time saves nine."

☞In answer to a number of correspondents, who inquire as to the vote for President in 1864, we state that the total vote was 4,026,302, of which LINCOLN received 2,217,190 and MCCLELLAN 1,809,112. In 1868 SEYMOUR carried eight States—New York, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, Georgia, Louisana, Kentucky and Oregon.

☞We consider ourself tolerably expert in deciphering all sorts of manuscript, but latterly we have had some sent us that would puzzle a Philadelphia lawyer to make out. There was no help for them—they had to go into the waste basket. When will correspondents learn to write so as to be understood?

☞Another of our old and respected citizens has departed, we allude to THOMAS ALLEN. For the past year he has been confined to his room, and gradualy declined, until Monday last, at 2 o'clock A. M. he peacefully "went to his rest." He was in his 65th, year of age.

☞Our Devil has recently been around on a tour of observation and it is astonishing to find out how much he sees Among other things he says he notices a good deal of "bustle" about the Dry Goods and Milinery stores. What a boy he is!

☞Improvement is still the order of the day. Even

Our genial friend STEGER

has caught the contagion and is putting in a new and modernized front to his store on Road Street. Success to him and all like him.

☞We have not received the official vote of all the counties of this District. Perquimans gave Grant 405 majority, a gain of 227. Camden is Republican by 132, a gain of 150. Currituck only goes Democratic by 114, a Republican gain of 300. Tyrell gives Grant 80 majority, a gain of 124. Chowan rolls up a majority of 300, a gain of 134.

☞A valued friend at Baltimore whose special and repeated kindness is appreciated and will be gratefully remembered, on writing us on business takes occasion to add:

"Well, we have met the enemy and they are ours. But the passengers on the Salt River Boat will be so few that poor GREELEY will, I fear, be lonesome. This I can say: the rout has been so complete that not a corporals guard is left to hatch confusion in the country again."

☞We regret to announce that several of the active young local politicians of the "Dolly Varden" persuasion are not in their usual spirits and health. We understand that quiet and total abstinence from—reading of newspaper election reports has been recommended! We advise them to take a trip on the steamer and try the virtues of the waters of Salt River.

☞We have been lenient, very indulduldgent to hundreds of our patrons—those owing us for subscription and job work. We knew that money was scarce and we have patiently waited with them. We now feel that they should show their appreciation of the favor by settling their accounts. We now need the money. Our printers, paper manufacturers, and our grocers all have to be paid, and paid promptly. We are not in the habit of dunning—we are averse to it, but needing that which is justly due us, we take this occasion to say: Now that the crops are gathered and ready for market, we want our bills paid. There is no excuse for longer delay. PAY UP.

☞The following is the official vote of Pasquotank County.

	Grant.	Greeley.	Gain.
Elizabeth City,	294.	114.	51.
Providence,	30.	61.	31.
Salem,	180.	29.	62
Nixonton,	97.	7.	23
Pool's Sch'l House,	176.	18.	20
Cartwright's S. H.,	36.	24.	13
Mt. Hermon	83.	31.	40.
New Land	153.	67.	62.
	1049.	351.	284.
	351.
Majority	698.

O'Conner got 13 votes in Salem, 1 at Pool's School House, 1 at Mt. Hermon and 1 at Providence—total 16.

☞While the NORTH CAROLINIAN has been moderate it has been firm and outspoken in its political opinions and utterances. It has been earnest and sincere in its advocacy of the Republican Party, believing that the best interests of our people demanded the continued supremacy of its principles and policy. Now that its course has been endorsed and the party it advocated has once more triumphed in this County and State as well as in the whole Union, it will pursue the even tenor of its way,—trying to make the victory a fruitful one in helping on the work of development and material progress in our City and County and District. Upon this "campaign" we now enter, hopeful of the most satisfactory results.

☞The following note was received through the Post office:

To the Editor of the North Carolinian:

When you stated in your speech in the Court House the week before the election that Gen. GRANT would carry 27 states, New York included, I thought you were putting it too strong. The result has proved your predictions true. Are you a prophet?

REPUBLICAN.

We answer no, nor are we the son of a prophet. To the careful observer of public events it required no spirit of prophecy to foretel the result. We had too much confidence in the judgement, good sense and wise discretion of the American people to believe that any important State would endorse a movement so reckless and audacious as the one concocted at Cincinnati and endorsed at Baltimore. As we predicted, it is an utter wreck, and not a plank of the shattered vessel and scarce a man of its pirate crew remains to mark the spot where it went down.

LOCAL PORT-FOLIO.

THE WARNING HAS BEEN HEEDED.—Since the exposure of the attempts made by certain unscrupulous local dealers, to palm off their coarse astringents made from cheap and impure materials, in the place of the great national tonic, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters public opinion has set strongly against these empirics and their predarations. Their occupation is gone, or soon will be. When the light is let into deception it soon wilts down. Persons who trifle with their own health, by using unknown preparations, with no guarantee to sustain them, when an established specific, proven by twenty years experience to be exactly what it is claimed to be, is within their reach, are sure to reporte their temerity. Many have done so this instance, but it is hoped that the truth plainly spoken has arrested to evil. In the meantime the demand for the leading protective and restorative medicine of America was never so great as it has been this season From the fever and ague districts of the west, south, west, and south, it is literally overwhelming, and it may be said of the advice from all parts of the country of the cures it is effecting in dispepsia, billious complaints, and chronic constipation, that "their name is legion." Everywhere the sick anp feeble seem to have realized the importance of "holding fast that which is good," and of avoiding what is spurious and dangerous.

The numerous "Bitters," under various names, which mercenary dealers endeavor to substitute for Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, should be avoided, for their own sakes by the sick and the public at large. Hostetter's Bitters are procurable in bottles only, and never sold bulk.

Beware of Counterfeits!

SPECIAL NOTICES.

Corect the Stomach.

It is a well ascertain d physiological fact that the origin of most of the ills that afflict humanity is a derangement on of the alimentary canal. The bowles become constipated and sluggish, and thence arises a train of painful and distressing maladies. As a preventive and cure, there is no remedy so safe and sureas Dr. Tutt's Vegetable Liver Pills.

WEST POINT GA. Sept, 3, 1871

W. H. Tutt:

Dear Sir—I have been an invalid for five years, and have with fortitude and patience tried nearly every patient medicine known to the people without any effectual relief. I was surprised by some of my friends to take your Vegetable Pills, for which I am under obligations for said suggestion, for being a favorable one, I propose to stay the effects. I weigh more than I ever did, and my health is far better than it has been in five years. I certainly give all the credit to your Pills; and as soon as there is an increase in the family, you may bet if it is a male that his name shall be Tutt. Publish if you choose.

The fences and ditches are in complete order, nearly every ditch on the premises either having been trimmed and cut out this fall, or now being done so. In addition to the open land, there is a large Deadening of One Hundred and Fifty acres ready to come into cultivation, and in quality not to be surpassed by any in the State. The owner who resides about five miles below it in Durants Neck will take pleasure in showing it and pointing out its advantages to any parties who may desire to examine it until the day of sale.

$500,000 IN BANK.
GRAND GIFT CONCERT
Postponed to Dec. 7, 1872.

THE SECOND GRAND GIFT CONCERT in aid of the Public Library in Kentucky, announced for September 28, has been postponed to December 7. 1872, because the accumulation of orders the few days before the drawing made it physically impossible to fill them without a few days' delay, and as a short postponement was inevitable, it was determined to defer it to a time that would make a full drawing sure by the sale of all the tickets.

The money necessary to pay in full all the offered gifts is now upon deposit in the Farmer's and Drovers' Bank, as will be seen by the following certificate of the Cashier:

FARMERS' AND DROVERS' BANK.
LOUISVILLE, KY., Sept. 26. 1872.

This is to certify that there is now on deposit in this bank over half a million of dollars to the credit of the Gift Concert fund, $500,000 of which is held by this bank as Treasurer of the Public Library of Kentucky to pay off all gifts to be awarded at the drawing.

R. S. VEACH, Cashier.

1,000 Prizes, amounting to
will be awarded, the highest prizes being $100, 000, $50,000, $25,000, and down in regular gradation to $100, which is the lowest.

The drawing will positively and unequivocally take place December 7. Agents are peremptorily required to close sales and make returns November 25, in order to give ample time for final arrangements. Orders for tickets or applications for circulars should be addressed to

CELEBRATED
Horse and Cattle Powders.

This preparation, long and favorably known, will thoroughly re-invigorate broken down and low-spirited horses, by strengthening and cleansing the stomach and intestines.

It is a sure preventive of all diseases incident to this animal, such as LUNG FEVER, GLANDERS, YELLOW WATER, HEAVES, COUGHS, DISTEMPER, FEVERS, FOUNDER, LOSS OF APPETITE AND VITAL ENERGY, &c. Its use improves the wind, increases the appetite—gives a smooth and glossy skin—and transforms the miserable skeleton into a fine-looking and spirited horse.

To keepers of Cows this preparation is invaluable. It is a sure preventive against Rinderpest, Hollow Horn, etc. It has been proven by actual experiment to increase the quantity of milk and cream twenty per cent. and make the butter firm and sweet. In fattening cattle, it gives them an appetite, loosens their hide, and makes them thrive much faster.

In all diseases of Swine, such as Coughs, Ulcers in the Lungs, Liver, &c., this article acts as a specific. By putting from one-half a paper to a paper in a barrel of swill the above diseases will be eradicated or entirely prevented. If given in time, a certain preventive and cure for the Hog Cholera.

The Horse Influenza.

Although this outburst of horses influenza among us is its first appearance in the United States of America, it is unlikely that it will be its last; and, although much has been written on the subject, further admonition is necessary, in that during the past few days several deaths have occured. In all of these cases we feel confident that the horses have succumbed to bad veterinary practice, to ill-treatment, or to a complication of diseases, never to simple horse influenza. It is not dangerous, and never in itself fatal. The horse influenza appears in the Spring and Autumn months after a cold, dry Winter, or a hot, dry Summer, when the following months are damp and chill; worse still if the atmosphere should be foggy. Now, this was exactly the condition of our weather when the horse influenza broke out among our car and stage horses. From them it spread to all the work horses of this City, even into livery stables, where the inmates enjoy comparative comfort and only a few isolated stables escaped, and these same were only saved by precautionary measures. The normal condition of the descase is, that it runs its course in from five to seven days; the abnormal conditions are, that it is checked in three days, or runs on for ten or fifteen days. The treatment is most simple. Steam the sick animals head in this manner: Put a small lock of hay in the bottom of an ordinary timber bucket:—we prefer timber to metal, it being a non conductor of heat: then pour on this hay sufficient boiling water to saturate it thoroughly, and to cause it to send off a volumn of very hot steam. To affect this the bucket should be well scalded before the hay has been put in. Then wrap the scalding mass in a thick blanket, place it at a convenient height under the animals head, and, as soon as his first fears are quieted, draw a coarse towell across the horse's face below the eyes. This towel should hang loosely over the front of the steaming buchet, but should be quite open in the back. In this manner the warm, damp air will be breathed into the nostrils of the horse, while the foul air that has passed through his lungs will freely escape behind. Never steam a horse's head by putting hot brand into a bag and then drawing it tightly over the head and neck of the wretched beast. Death has often ensued from this inhuman practice. When the sack has been withdrawn, the eyes are red and swolen, the brain is surcharged with blood, and lips and roof of the mouth are frequently found to have been scalded, beside all of which the animal thus treated has swallewod an immense amount of poison —having breathed and rebreathed again and again contaminated air which has been actually poisoned in his own system. Only in severe cases should medicines be resorted to, and then small doses should be given. From 60 to 80 grains of tartar emetic, mixed with from 120 to 150 grains of finely powdered nitre, these to be administered in a small mash of warm coarse wheaten bran; give these quantities for three successive nights, then desist. Eet the diet be nourishing and laxative, and easy of assimilation; also let it be warm and largely liquiform. Many veterinary practitioners have recomended doses of aconite, belladonna, nux vomica, and digitalis. None of these drugs are good in horse influenza. Sedatives are not needed. A slight action of the skin, brought about by gentle means, is certain to effect a cure, if only coupled with total rest and good care. We have already recommended stables to be disinfected, because generally American stables are Augean-like in their filthy condition; but stables well kept need no further cleansing. Where disinfectants are used, tar and brimstone fumes are good: so are carbolic acid and chlorid of lime, and comon limewater, or even quick-lime sprinkled in corners and crevices. Many owners of stimulating nostrums and condition powders have seized this moment to thrust their noxious mixtures and compounds on the unwary public against any such like drugs and mixtures we would especially warn farmers; their horses could not possibly gain any benefit from them, and would run the risk of serious harm. Brood mares and young stock that are out at pasture, if not infected by contact with sick horses, or by being placed in stalls where sick horses have stood, are little subject to horse influenza, being exempt from the exciting causes such as undue fatigue and sudden chills after work. Again, their food is laxative and their systems free from other diseases. When stock running at pasture show any of the first symptoms of horse influenza, take them up at once, house them in cool, well ventilated barns, not in close, hot stables; keep them dry and comfortable, slightly blister the throat, and diet on warm brand mashes and tepid drinks. In these cases medicine need rarely be resorted to. We would not recomend such animals to be blanketed; the sudden change of temperature thereby caused would be too severe; a deep, dry bedding of straw would be all that could be required to make the animals comfortable, and to hasten their recovery.—N. Y. Times.

Colman's Rural World cites a series of experiments instituted to test the average loss of grain in weight by drying. Corn decreased one-fifth, and wheat one fourteenth. If this is true it is readily seen that farmers will make more by selling unshelled corn in the Fall at 75 cents than the following Summer at $1 a bushel, and that wheat at $1 32 in December is equal to $1 50 for the same wheat in June following. This calculation is on the basis of interest at seven per cent, and takes no account of loss from vermin.

DESTROYING WORMS IN POSTS.—The worms in the pot may be destroyed by stopping up the hole in the pot with a cork, and watering with lime-water until it stands on the surface. The lime-water may remain for an hour; then, on removing the cork, it will pass off. The lime-water may be made by pouring thirty gallons over ten pounds of fresh lime. Stir well up and allow the whole to stand two or three days; theu employ the clear liquor.—Tilton's Journal of Agriculture.

TO CLEANSE KID GLOVES.—Put the gloves on the hand, and with a clean towel dipped in the milk wipe off the dirt; repeat the process until the gloves are clean. Benzine may be used instead of milk. To dye the black: procure a small quautity of extra of logwook, dissolve it, and with a spenge put it evenly on the gloves until the tint suits. Dry them on the hond.

A RAT-PROOF CORN-CRIB.—The simplest and cheapest way of making a corn-crib rat proof is to set it on posts, say two feet high, and at the top place inverted tin pans, of size sufficient to extend two or three inches over the posts.

Pimples and brown spots on the face Eruptions, Blotches, Scrofulous Diseases and all sorses arising from impure blood, are cured by Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

DESCRIPTIVE CATALOGUE.

OF VALUABLE

NORTH CAROLINA LANDS,

FOR SALE BY

GEORGE D. POOL.

Real Estate Agent,

ELIZABETH CITY, N. C.

In presenting my list of lands and other properties for sale, I would say that no section of the United States offers such inducements for capitalisis and emigrants, as this section of North Carolina. In longevity and healthfulness, it will compare favorably with any where: and in easy and cheap transportation of products to market, in pleasantness of climate, in the sociability of the people, in great fertility, and durability of soil, no section can equal it.

A railroad will soon be built to Weldon, putting this place in direct communication by Rail, with the whole United States. This, together with our great fishing, farming and manufacturing interests, and certain early completion of already projected works of improvement for putting in nearer, cheaper and easier communication with the Ocean, will render this one of the most important commercial, and manufacturing points on the Southern country.

A Steam Saw and Grist Mill in the town of Nixonton 8 miles from E. City. This Mill has a fine wharf and store attached on deep navigable water, the engine is 40 horse power, and all in good order. It is one of the finest locations to be found any where for custom work, and for getting good saw logs easily and cheaply. Price $4,000 cash.

Adjoining the mill property is 40 acres of fine land on the River, with three houses, all for $1200. Near the same is a good two story dwelling and 13 acres of land for $2,000, and a good one story dwelling, with one acre of land for $300.

Also two fine farms in Pasquotank county, 10 miles from E. City, within half mile of church, school house and post office. One tract contains about 400 acres, with fair buildings and mostly cleared, and the other contains 300 acres, with good two story dwelling, large barn, and other outhouses, both are offered at $20 per acre, one third cash, balance in one and two years.

Also one other tract in Pasquotank county, containing 116 acres, within one mile of the town with fine buildings, mostly cleared and in cultivation. Price $25 per acre, one half cash, balance in 12 months.

A valuable site for a hotel at Nag's Head, 40 miles from Elizabeth City, and 50 miles from Edenton. This is situated immediately on the Ocean, and is a famous Summer resort for invalids, and those seeking health, comfort, and amusements during the summer months. It is in direct communication by steamboats and railroad with all parts of North Carolina, Virginia, and the North; and is equal in natural advantages to Newport, or Cape May. Visitors flock to this famous summer resort by hundreds and thousands, and a large amount of money can be made by a hotel. A charter has been obtained from the Legislature of N. C., for a joint stock company to build the hotel. There is now an old hotel on the spot, which could be cheaply repaired and bought for $3.000. This hotel, though imperfectly kept, cleared the proprietor last season, over $8,000. For a man or a company, having some capital, this is one of the finest chances to make money at hotel keeping to be found anywhere. The early attention of the public is invited to this property.

A fine steam saw and grist mill at Hertford, the county seat of Perquimans County, N. C., 18 miles from Elizabeth City. This mill has a fifty horse power engine, now in good running, two pairs of best French burr stones, and two upright saws. The house has a brick basement, and the building is large and in good order. There is one and a half acres of land belonging to this property, and a good two story dwelling, and other out-houses. The section of country adjacent abounds in the finest yellow pine, cypress, ash, poplar, and other valuable timber. This property originally cost $15.000, and is now offered at forced sale for the low price of $3.500, $7.00, cash, and the balance in six equal instalments, six months apart each with interest.

A fine farm and fishery in same county. The farm contains 400 acres of the finest land, lies immediately on Albemarle Sound where the water is 12 miles wide, and 18 to 20 feet deep, has got buildings, and fine neighborhood. The fishery is on the farm and goes with it. It has a new seine 2,500 yards long, and all the necessary boats, buildings, &c., (which cost over $15,000 two years ago.) The fishery alone, of a good season, will make from 5 to $10,000 profit to the owner. This property is offered at forced sale for the low price of $20,000, $7,000 cash, balance on easy times.

A store at South Mills, in Camden county, 20 miles from E. City, and 20 miles from Norfolk, lying on the canal where steamers pass daily. A fine chance for merchandize. Store is large with dwelling above containing six rooms, is in first rate order, has office, kitchen, dairy, and other necessary outhouses. Goods to the amt. of $50,000 per annum can be sold here, and at large profits. A splended stand for a country retail store. Price $2,500—one third cash, balance in one and two years.

A valuable tract of land in Camden county, at South Mills, on the Dismal Swamp Canal, lying on the canal for two miles, containing over 300 acres of land—two-thirds cleared, and in a fine state of cultivation, with good buildings, &c.; balance in valuable timber. Price $12,000, one-third cash, balance in one and two years, interest from January, 1871. This is a valuable farm for corn, wheat, and vegetables, and being midway between Elizabeth City and Norfolk, and located where steamers pass by the door daily, is a desirable and cheap property.

A fine farm of 600 acres within six miles of E. City, one mile from navigable water, and the best cotton farm in the State. It is also well adapted to raising corn and wheat. This farm has a splended two-story dwelling upon it, large barn, 40 by 60 feet, a large number of outhouses, by splended trees and shrubbery, is in a strong Union neighborhood, and altogether the most desirable place in the county. A little over one-half of this land is cleared, and the balance is covered with the finest yellow pine, poplar, ash and other timber. Price $20 per acre—one-third cash, balance in one and two years with interest. Title reserved.

Sixteen houses and lots in Elizabeth City, with good dwellings, out-houses, &c. Prices and terms reasonable.

A valuable farm in Perquimans county, N. C. near navigable water. Has a fine dwelling-house with ten rooms, in splended order, with splended barns and stables—all in first rate order. The farm is very productive in corn, oats, wheat, cotton and clover. It is one of the finest farms in the State and is now in good cultivation, contains 585 acres of land, about three-fourths cleared and under cultivation. Price $10,000, one-third cash January 1, next balance in two equal annual instalments with interest at the rate of six per cent.

A farm of 370 acres 8 miles from town by water, and 12 miles by land, is offered for sale for $10,000 in easy payments. This tract of land lies immediately on the River which is 4 miles wide and washes the farm its whole length on one side, and a branch of the River one mile wide, binds it on one end. The land is well adapted to raising corn, wheat, cotton, oats, peas, &c., lies high and dry, and is susceptible of the highest improvement. Fronting and looking over, as it does, two large sheets of navigable water, where steamers and sailing vessels are constantly passing, carrying freight and passengers to all parts of the country, its location and surroundings, are of the most fascinating and desirable character. There is a fishery on it ready for working a seine 2,500 yards long, and which commands a portion of both streams of water, and can be made immensely profitable. The price charged is low, and the purchase a very desirable one. The buildings consist of a good two-story dwelling and out-houses.

A desirable house and lot in the town of Elizabeth City on the corner of two principal streets, the principal one, and situated in the best business locality in the town. The lot contains about two acres of land, and the buildings consist of a fair dwelling three stories high, containing eight rooms, all in good order, another two story building with four rooms and pantries, dairy, smokehouses, stables, &c. The dwelling has a good cellar under it. There is room on the front lot to erect two good stores, and they would occupy the best stand in the town for merchandize.

A Farm of 200 acres within one mile of Elizabeth City, with good two story dwelling, large barn and stables, and all necessary outhouses, orchard of fine fruit trees, and a large number of ornamental trees and shrubbery around dwelling. This farm is on one of the most public roads in the County—is in a high state of cultivation—has fine and durable fences, &c. Altogether, it is the richest land and most desirable location, anywhere in the neighborhood of the town. Price $6000—one-half cash, balance in easy payments.

KEYSTONE MILL COMPANY'S

PREPARED WHEAT

AND

SUGAR OF MILK.

Patented July 23d. 1872.

A FARINACEOUS FOOD FOR IN-

VALIDS AND INFANTS.

By the peculiar process in which this preparation is made, all the flesh forming constituents—EARTHY and SALINE elements of the grain are retained, with none of the STARCH, all of which being converted into Dextrine. It contains all the Lime, Sulphur, Phosphorus, Iron and Manganese for the animal juices, and Gum and Fecula for respiration and fatty tissue, with the proteine compounds (Gluten, Albumien &c.) from which nerve and muscular tissues are formed.

It is believed by the most intelligent men that much of the suffering, sickness and mortality of mankind is traceable to deficient or faulty nutrition. The same cause may also be assigned the frequent disapointment of physicians in the result of the action of most approved remedies.

We feel sure that this article will supply the deficiency.

Sugar of Milk.

[LACTIN.]

Is a chrystalized sugar, obtained from the whey of cow's milk by evoporation. It is manufactured largely in Switzerland and the Bavarian Alps as an article of food and for medical purposes.

It has been used considerably in England as a non-nitrogenous article of diet in Consumption and other Pulmonary Diseases, and with excelent effect in extreme Irritability of the Stomach, (see Wood & Bache's Dispensatory.)

We manufacture 2 grades:—No. 1, in yellow wrapper, ground coarse, to be eaten as cracked wheat, with cream. No. 2, white wrapper, is ground into Flour for Puddings, Blanc-Mange and Bread.

BRILLIAFT ARRAY of CONTRIBUTORS.
CLARENCE COOK On Furniture, And Decoration
R. H. STODDARD On Authors.

EXTRAORDINARY INDUCEMENTS TO NEW SUBSCRIBERS;

500 Pages for $1.00! &c., &c.

The Publishers of Scribner's Monthly, in their Prospectus just issued, promised for the ensuing year a more prilliant array of contributors, and an increase in the variety and beauty of its illustrations, already conceded by the critics to be "finer than any which have hitherto appear in any American magazine."

DR. HOLLAND, the Editor, will write the serial story of the year, which will be autobiographical in form, and will be illustrated by Miss Hallock. It is entitled ARTHUR BONICASTLE, and will deal with some of the most difficult problems of American Life. It will be commenced in the November Number.

There will be a new story by SAXE HOLM, THE ONE LEGGED DANCERS.

BRET HARTE, the best writer of short stories now living, will contribute a characteristic intitled THE EPIC OF FIDDLETOWN, which will be illustrated by Sheppard.

R. H. STODDARD will write a series of entertainiog papers about AUTHORS, THEIR PERSONAL CHARACTERISTICS, HOME LIFE, FYMILIES, FRIENDS, WHIMS, AND WAYS. A series of PORTRAITS OF LIVING AMERICAN WRITERS, is also promised.

Clarance Cook will write about FURNITTRE, AND THE DECORATION OF AMERICAN HOMES. These papers will be eminently practical as well as artistic, and will be illustrated with designs and sketches by numerous artists in addition to those which the writer himself will furnish.

Among those who will contribute are:

Hans Andersen, Bryant, Bushell, Eggleston, Froude, Higginson, Bishop Hunlington, Bret Hart, John Hay, H. H. McDonald, Mitchell, Miss Phelps, Stedman, Stockton, Stoddard, Celia Thaxter, Warner, Wilkinson, Mrs. Whitney, besides a host of others.

The editorial control and direction of the Magazine will remain in the hands of Dr. Holland, who will continue to write "THE TOPPICS OF THE TIME," which the N. Y. Independent says, "are more widely quoted than any similar papers in any American magazine."

Watson Gilder will write "THE OLD CABINET," as hitherto. Prof. John C. Draper conducts the Department of "NATURE AND SCIENCE." The department of "HOME AND SOCIEMY" and "CULTURE AND PROGRESS," will engage the contributions of more than a score of pens on both sides of the Atlantic. The Watchman and Reflectors says, "Scribner's Monthly for September is better than usual, which indicates a needless waste of editooal brains and Publisher's money, for the Magazine was good enough before?" And yet the Publishers promise to make it still better for the coming year!!

The Subscription price is $4.00 a year, with special rates to Clergymen, Teachers, and Postmasters.
